

Live Your Leadership Potential

Internal Integrity Training by Jeanny Chai

What does it look and feel like when your organization and the individuals within it are living their leadership potential?

Potential, by definition, is the ability to develop, achieve and succeed.

When your employees are not a united front, confidently moving forward together, it can be challenging to guide the way to the success you envision.

What you want is a culture of accountability,
decisive action and risk-taking,
and the answer to unleashing this collective capacity & making your vision a reality is to build greater employee confidence.

Take Ownership IN.IT.

Career and Leadership Design

You can only move forward from a solid foundation, and it has long been proven that external leadership training alone will not spur the all-encompassing success you know possible.

The solution you are seeking is one of inner transformation – building a confident internal reality – at both the individual and organization level.

This is what we achieve inside the IN.IT. Training™ program

IN.IT. Training™ is a ground-breaking program by Jeanny Chai, designed to empower your people to take accountability, gain decisiveness and be willing to take the strategic risks that foster personal and organizational growth.

It's time to become our own advocates and take ownership of our career and leadership design to achieve the happiness and success we all desire.

Give your employees with the transformative confidence and internal integrity they need to step into their leadership potential...

And see just how high you all rise as a result.

About Jeanny Chai

Transformational Trainer, Speaker & Coach

Heart, humor and hard-won strategies collide in the work of BambooMyth.com Founder, Jeanny Chai. An up-and-coming and already in-demand teacher for Asian Americans in Silicon Valley, Jeanny's clients include Salesforce, Oracle and Cisco.

Through her empowering workshops & programs, she guides aspiring leaders to acknowledge the cultural experiences unique to the Asian American community and transform them in a way that positively impacts their career and leadership potential. Jeanny knows what it takes to realize authentic happiness and fulfillment!

Inspiring and entertaining, she delivers powerful, practical principles steeped in storytelling. She draws her wisdom from personal experience "shaming" her family by not attending medical school after graduating from Stanford University, and spending over a decade raising a family of four. In her work life, Jeanny grew to become a successful business development professional, coveted by CEOs for her ability to launch new sales efforts at early stage tech start-ups. She has stood in front of C-level execs of A&T, eBay and Amazon.

Having survived Stage 2 breast cancer and overcome great struggles in her health and family, Jeanny is equipped with the tools to help others reframe limiting cultural norms and leveraged them to create a more authentic journey to success. Her mission is to save others the pain of having to go through great adversity to reach the point of living their leadership potential.
